They will serve as the first points of contact for folks who have questions about how they will benefit from the Recovery Act.

“The Obama Administration is moving full steam ahead with the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act,” said Barrow. “The 12th District urgently needs this help, and folks need to know when the money is heading their way. With all of the information that’s floating around out there, Lynthia Ross and Brandon Webb have my full confidence that they can help local officials, businesses, and individuals through the process so that we can start creating and saving jobs in our area as soon as possible.”
